OPTIWHITE GLASS

FLOAT GLASS

ILLUSION Light Table is an aesthetic blend of recycled electronic components and environmentally friendly materials. The table is one of a kind, seamlessly blending elegance and sustainability, making it a unique object. The impeccably finished surface is made of 8 mm thick optiwhite safety glass, into which other materials such as wood, brass (blue version of the table) and steel (pink version of the table) are integrated to give form to it. These carefully selected components not only enhance the character of the table, but also contribute to its sustainability, demonstrating an unwavering commitment to aesthetics and sustainable practices.

LITHIUM-IONEN-AKKU

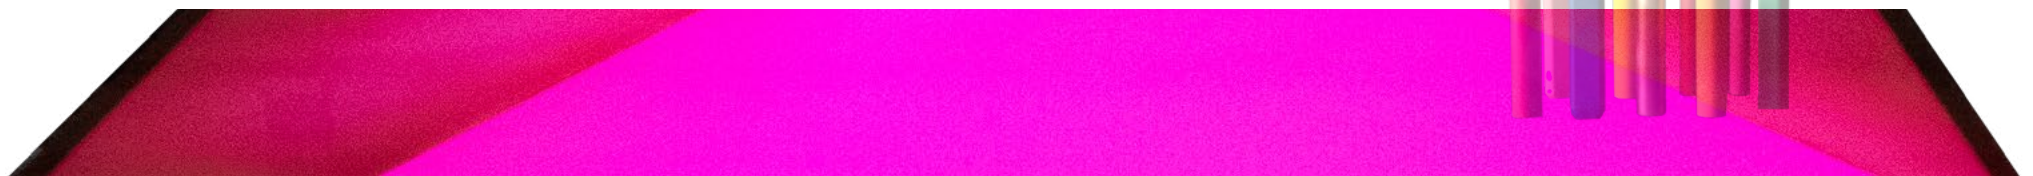

TOUCH DIMMER SCHALTER

ILLUSION light table features 12V recycled LED modules sourced from TV screens. The LED modules are powered by 230 V and by 40V lithium-ion battery made up of eight interconnected cells that deliver a total output of around 10 Wh.

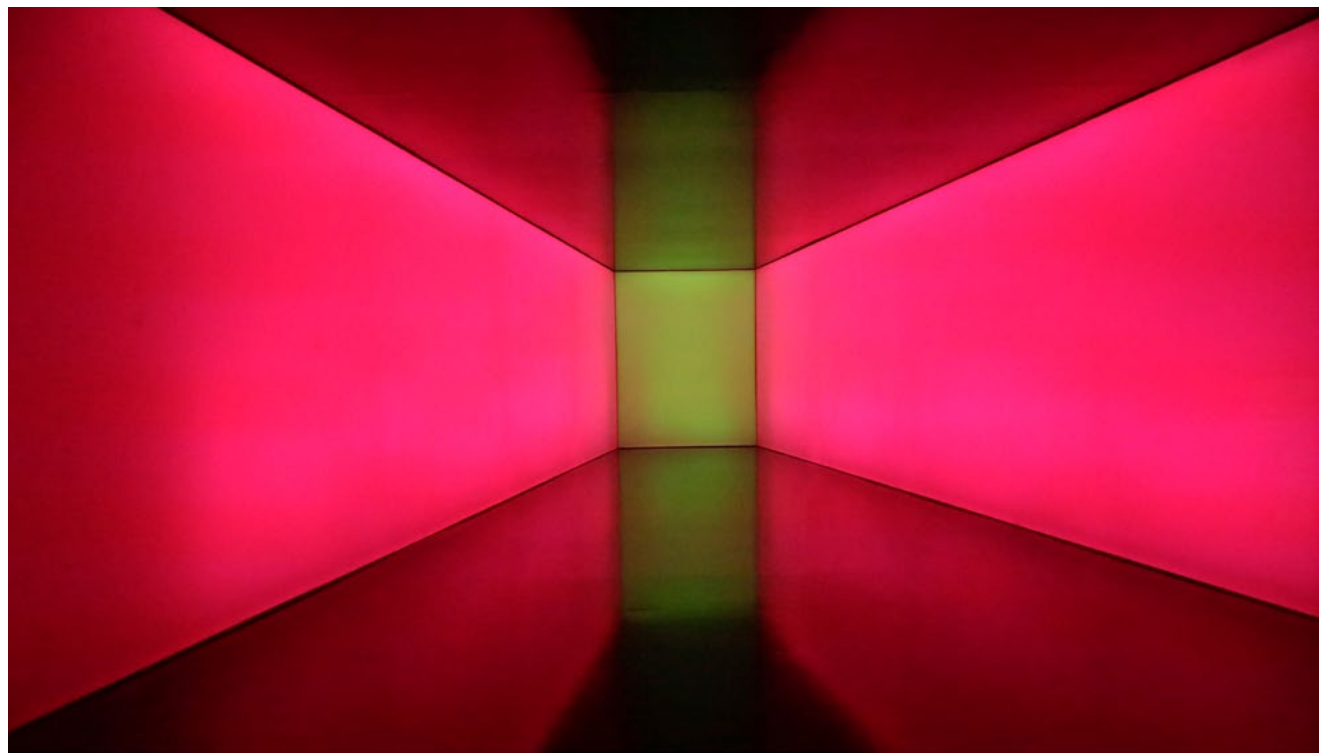

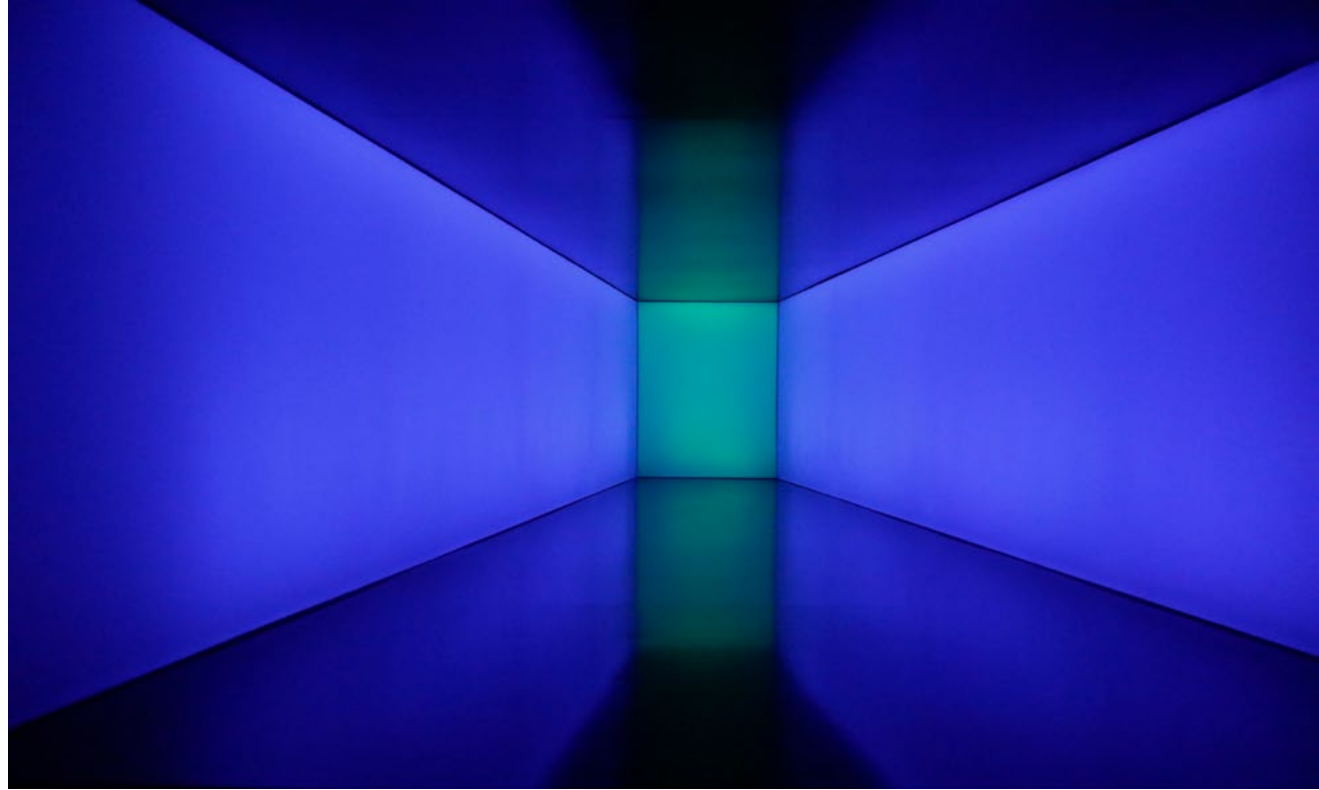

This integrated energy source provides 9 hours at full intensity or 14 hours at 50 % brightness, ensuring excellent light output and an exceptional glow for its surroundings. In addition, an intelligent integrated battery management system (BMS) guarantees the necessary protection against overcharging, over-discharging, overcurrent and short circuits, thus ensuring a long service life.

A TOUCH DIMMER SWITCH is located inside the table. The signal is channelled through a 2 cm wide plate. A brief touch turns the light on and off. With a long touch, the light can be dimmed. It has a memory function.

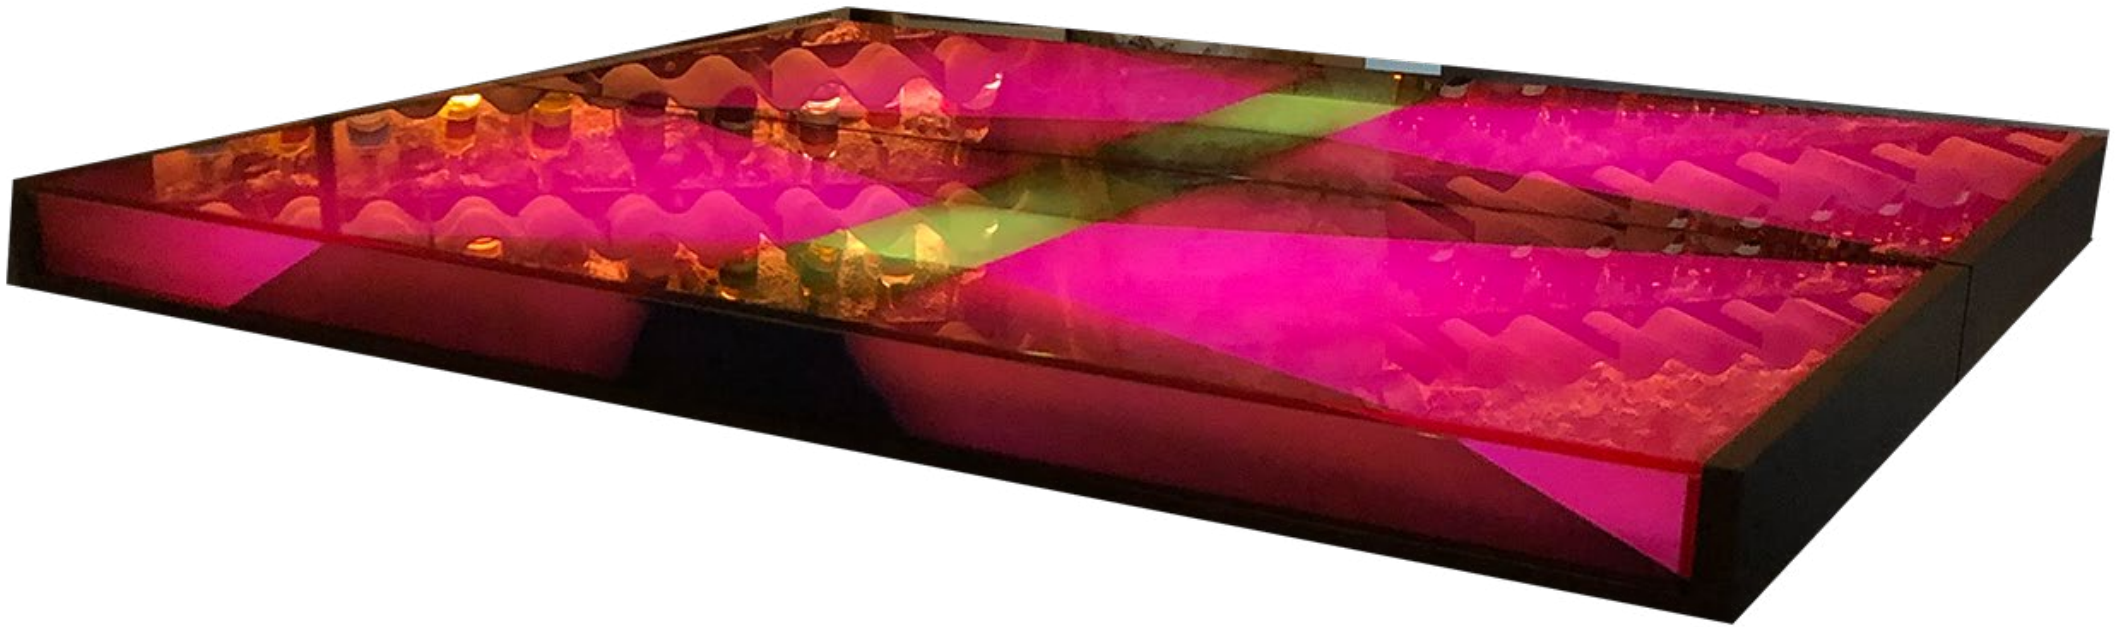

The picture printed on glass is a documentation from one of the installations of the exhibition ILLUSION created by artist Ada Kobusiewicz, exhibited in Graz in 2019.

This table transcends the traditional furniture philosophy by merging functionality, art and design. It represents a synergy of aesthetics and utility.
